BELLE GLADE — PAHOKEE, FL.

Commissioners hedge on zoning requirement

BELLE GLADE — Whether churches and schools in the city will be required to hide themselves from their neighbors in the future, city commissioners hedged their bets Monday night on a relatively new requirement that visual screens surround such facilities.

The Belle Glade Planning and Zoning Board recommended to the commission that visual screens, which City Planner Joe Fay said could be either six foot hedges or opaque fences, should be erected around two schools, as required by the city's new building code.

The problem came when one of the two facilities under review, the school being operated by the Glades Area Association for Retarded Citizens on West Canal Street North, was found to have only one residential neighbor and he said he didn't want a hedge planted on the property boundaries.

GAARC Director Tricia Blain said the association was willing to do whatever was required but wanted to be a good neighbor too. The commissioners said they wanted to oblige both parties but City Attorney John Baker said the screening requirement was spelled out in the ordinance and the only way the commissioners could waive the requirement would be to amend the ordinance, which they promptly moved to do.

Fay read the requirement that a six-foot visual screen be erected within three years between any church or school when the institution's property was bounded by other property being considered.

The Apostles Church of Jesus Christ at 1316 West Canal St. South has plans to build and open a school on its property and the pastor, J. P.

Feld, told the commissioners he had been contacted by five adjacent property owners who said they, also, don't want a screen erected between the church and school property and their property.

The controversy came when Milton Rader said Mrs. Wilma Rowland of 633 N.W. 14th St. did want a screen and fence between her property and the school and the Planning and Zoning Board had so recommended.

Rader said he was speaking for Mrs. Rowland because she was unable to attend the meeting. He said the reasons for the request was that Mrs. Rowland claimed children using the church playground facilities have already damaged her property, including her home's air conditioner.

Milton also said Mrs. Rowland, unlike the other property owners adjacent to her property, is a permanent resident.

Feld said the church was willing to do whatever the commission requested but all the neighbors besides Mrs. Rowland had come to him with a signed petition asking that no fence or screen be erected because they wanted the free access now provided to the church property.

"We're trying to do what's right for the community," he said.

Commissioners Charles Goodlett and Randy Davidson said they had been approached by some of the neighbors who had signed Feld's petition and had been asked to waive the screen requirement.

Mayor Tom Altman said a problem with waiving the requirement is what happens should one of the neighbors who doesn't now want the screen decide in the future that they do want it, or sell to a new neighbor who wants the screen. He said the problem is planning now for the future.

Davidson said that if a problem arises 20 years from now, it could be addressed by the commission at that time. Altman explained, with comments from City Attorney Baker, that that couldn't be done, that once the commission waives or requires the screen, the review process would then be complete and future demands couldn't be made.

He expressed surprise that the ordinance requires a visual screen and not a fence and went on to say the commission couldn't require the fence requested by Mrs. Rowland because it isn't required in the ordinance.

Rader repeated his request for the screen and fence and went on to say he felt it should be required immediately, not three years from now as the ordinance requires.

At one point in the discussion, Rader suggested a compromise would be for the church to erect a screen and fence around Mrs. Rowland's property. Feld countered with a proposal that the church erect a hedge around Mrs. Rowland's home.

The commission decided finally to postpone action until the ordinance had been amended.

gutters, within a three-year period.

He said the new requirements means the city might have to perform some work whether it is agreed to by the property owners or not.

Pahokee Housing Authority draws heat

PAHOKEE — Come winter, tenants living in McClure Village and Stuckey Homes, two of four housing developments operated by the Pahokee Housing Authority will face the winter temperatures at ease thanks to a $100,000, modernization grant PHA received from the Department of Urban Housing and Development.

Randy Mills, executive director of PHA told the PHA board of directors, approximately $90,000 of the modernization funds are being used to install new gas heaters in the two projects.

"The installation of the wall units in Stuckey Homes is almost completed and the units in McClure Village should be completed in several weeks," he said.

Mills added the electrical systems in the housing units are also being upgraded.

In a major overhaul to improve the living conditions of the tenants and the physical appearance of the PHA housing developments, Mills said the Authority has been involved in a number of improvement projects over the past nine months.

In addition to the installation of the heaters, Mills said the painting of homes at Padgett Island is completed and Fremd Village should be completed in several weeks.

Mills also said refrigerators and stoves are being replaced in many of the units.

Mrs. Ethel Barnes, president of the Tenant Organization also requested "some thing" be done to alleviate the insect and rodent problems presently facing the tenants.

Mills said the housing authority recently negotiated the annual exterminating contracts with a local exterminating company and the projects are being sprayed on a regular basis.

As an added measure Mills said weather stripping would be placed on doors of units when tenants request it.

Hodges Simmons, a

CPAC tours target areas

BELLE GLADE — The City of Belle Glade Community Development Department showed off its 1980-81 accomplishments to City Commissioners Dorothy Walker and Charles Goodlett and members of the Citizens Planning and Advisory Committee who were making the second annual CDD tour of on-going and completed projects.

Community Development Director Remar Harvin, and the CDD staff conducted the tour of five homes built under the department's relocation program, six homes that underwent rehabilitation by private contractors and the CDD's in-house crew.

The excursion around the community by bus, also included a ride down S.W. Fifth Street to view the department side-walk and swale construction project presently underway.

The tour ended with the commissioners and the advisory committee getting a close-up view of the second phase of the Lake Shore Park.

Mrs. Gladys Ganz, Rehabilitation advisor with CDD told the group the installation of the lights on the second softball field and approximately $5,000 worth of landscaping had been added to the park in the second developmental phase of the park.

Harvin said the funds for the work completed during the past year came from the $471,000 grant the department received during the 1979-80 fiscal year.

"The money comes from the U.S. Department of the Housing and Urban Development and no money from the city's general fund was spent on the work," said Harvin.

The tour was conducted in the Southwest, Northwest, and Northeast sections of Belle Glade.

The main focus of the tour was to show the group the actual results of the different housing programs which offer aid to eligible homeowners in the community.

One of the Saturday stops included a first hand look at private contractors working on the rehabilitation of homes in the Northeast section of the city.

Harvin said the project should be completed in approximately three weeks.

Both Commissioners Goodlett and Miss Walker had plenty of questions for the CDD staff and offered their services to Harvin and his staff whenever needed during the upcoming year.

Harvin also told the group plans are in the making to offer a rental assistance program to help the owners of the large apartment complexes make necessary renovations.

The project would involve setting aside approximately $200,000 during the first year which the landlords can borrow from to make the repairs.

The money would be returned with interest into a revolving fund so other apartment building owners could also receive aid, Harvin said.

"This is the only way we can see the city addressing the rental assistance problem," he added.

While making the excursion the group saw many trailers placed at various locations which is presently restricted against the parking of trailer units.

Harvin said he hopes to move some of the trailers to a trailer park, and the land could then be used for the development of new single-family or multi-family units.

It's that time of the year again. The week-long beer and potato chip festival that each year brings millions of Americans together in camaraderie and fellowship, where thousands of dollars hinge on a single pass or pitch, is once again upon us.

Sports Saturday Week (SSW), known also as the ABC Octoberfest, the pre-fall-festival event or Hurricane Howard, it's that time of year when baseball season is in its grand finale, and football is at the crucial mid-season mark and the NBA is barely out of the starting gate.

It's that time when, in a gesture of goodwill the sports directors at the three major and various minor networks decide to give the "sports-deprived" American public enough baseball, football and basketball to fill up a week of programming.

It begins quite unnoticed. I went to a friend of mine's house for the pre-SSW Monday night football game and all seemed normal (if you call a room full of Denver Broncos fans and a keg of beer normal). There were a few careless remarks about the World Series opening Tuesday, but it didn't sink in that SSW was upon them.

Tuesday after work my friend said he came home to find the images of Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, and Sandy Koufax on the screen.

"Great! An hour of Series Highlights before the game." His wife did not share his enthusiasm.

Wednesday through Friday he ate, drank and slept the World Series. On the teams traveling days he said he would turn the dial to watch the Atlanta Hawks do a slam-dunk or two or the New York Islanders shoot the puck for awhile (that's right, it's hockey season too).

By Saturday, SSW is at a fever pitch. His wife has threatened to go back to mother in Orlando. (A government report indicates force rates rise 25 percent during SSW. However the same report indicated a 30 percent decline in birth rate the following July.)

Realizing his wife was serious, my friend said he quickly drove to the neighborhood 7-11, purchased the remaining beer stock and returned in time for last week's college football highlights.

"Here's the keys honey."

After State demolished Tech, a lukewarm TV dinner and a cold Miller, he flipped on the series. Following the game, as his friends and colleagues disapprovingly stumble out, he noticed, much to his delight a video-taped college game which was telecast earlier on another channel.

"Break out another six-pack fellas, we got an all-nighter going." The troops merely returned to their entrenchments.

My friend told me if he can get up by noon on Sunday (granted, the SSW schedule may be too rigorous for those of weak heart and liver), he could catch the NFL report and two games. At this point it doesn't matter whose playing or even what the sport is as long as action revolves around a ball of some sort.

The NFL Highlights flow easily into the fifth game of the series. My friend said he was just about to drop off to sleep when the announcer blared: "And with that pitch the Royals begin the longest World Series game on record - twenty-two innings so far."

After the game there was an early morning sports round-up. He said he must have fallen asleep because the next thing he remembered hearing was that all too familiar voice:

"And Dandy on top of being a 9.1 sprinter in the 100-yard-dash, Gabinski can play the clarinet and loves to eat pistachio ice cream."

Howard's personality in the SSW Monday night football game is frequently the climax of the event and is heralded all week. The remaining games of the series are anti-climatic and usually are used by the networks as a "sober up and pay up" period for fans.

It is during this period that pets, children and wives (usually in that order), generally not missed until Tuesday morning anyway, begin to reappear, in many cases with divorce papers, the police or the SCPA.

My friend, however remains undaunted by this yearly marital and financial crisis and is already making plans for next year's event.

"I'm going to get one of those video-recorders so I can record the games I'm missing on the other channels. So next year SSW will last twice as long."

A better way

Sometimes we people in the Glades don't know how well we have it until we take a closer look at our enlightened and educated cousins on the coast.

Such was the case when the cousins told us through news stories last week, in the wake of the cancellation of the Lake Worth-Boca Raton football game a couple of Fridays ago, about what they're spending for security at games over there.

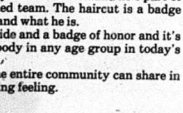

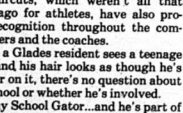

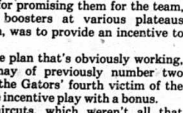

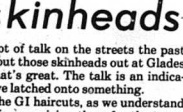

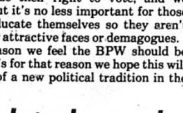

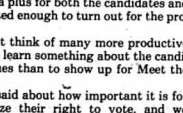

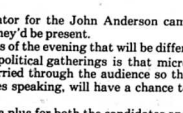

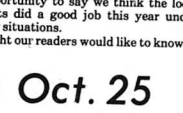

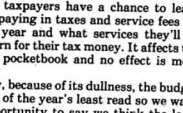

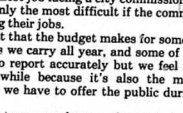

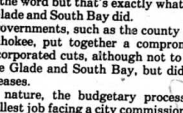

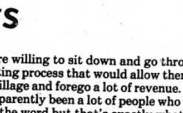

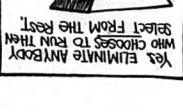

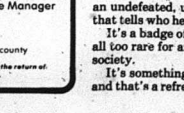

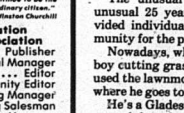

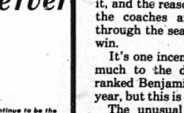

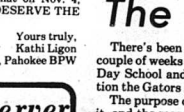

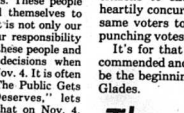

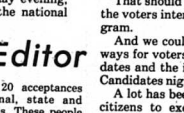

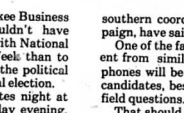

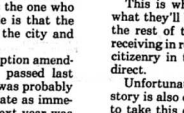

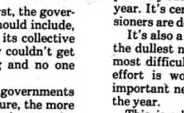

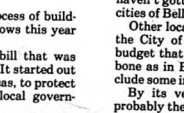

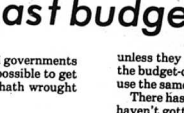

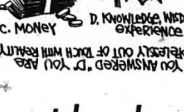

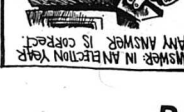

Seems most of the schools are spending some where around $350-$400 a game, money that comes directly out of the school's athletic budget which could always be used for other sports that don't pay for themselves.

And sometimes, as at the aforementioned game, that expensive security turns out to be not enough. Compare that to the free security provided Glades Central and Glades Day School games and it's not only cheaper, in SSW cases it's better. We here, for those who don't follow local teams to many away games, are provided security as good or better as any seen anywhere in the state.

The philosophy behind the Belle Glade Police Department's free coverage is where we can really draw our satisfaction from though.

Put in the words of Police Inspector Mike Miller, "We'd rather be there and stop any trouble early than have to stop it after it gets out of hand and outside the stadium."

Which could explain why there hasn't been a single riot for any reason in the ten year history of Glades Central or since Glades Day opened its stadium.

Lessee if I can bunker down here and get another column written with a dab of help from my friends and family I've never met. Something tells me that this lady is no stranger to anyone, just a friend they haven't met.

The lady's name is Ruth Romine Teaford and she hails from up north Alabama way, little town called, believe it or not, Townley. She's related to Nina Stoker, our circulation manager, in some way and she wrote a book called Southern Homespun earlier this year.

The purpose of the book, according to an introduction, is to preserve some of the traditions of the area by recording home remedies, tales of haints, a dictionary of the local language and turns of phrases.

After going through the little book (it's 127 pages long and was published by The Storde Publishers in Birmingham, Alabama) you'll find it's a little more than just a collection of old wives' tales.

I've already made up my mind the people around here are kind of people and Mrs. Teaford falls right in there too, which isn't surprising since she was named the most popular teacher in Alabama for this year.

Besides, how could you not like someone who provides you with a column and a way to get rid of freckles. (Be patient, Sharon, we're getting there.)

Mrs. Teaford starts off with her dictionary, including the standard of living, and then goes on to talk about gumming for talking too much and bumblebees for being confused to some of the ones I hadn't heard, such as calling a soft drink dope and calling a boy who's too big for his britches

"joke-legged." Once you've gotten through the dictionary, you're ready for some of the more colorful turns of phrase, such as, "he's so crooked, he screws on his socks."

Some of the other ones I liked were: You're so smart, you must eat razor blades for breakfast. She's so ugly, she'd snare lightning bolts.

I knew, for instance, that you nail a copper nail in your shoe heel to grind out arthritis and you keep a Chihuahua dog in the house to cure asthma but I had no idea you could stop bleeding by reading lighted light.

Mrs. Teaford tells you right up front that she's included things that were obviously superstitious, along with legitimate remedies and it's obvious when you get to this section on nose bleeds.

Beast budgets

Now the budgetary process for local governments is winding down to a close, it may be possible to get a perspective of what the legislature hath wrought this past session in Tallahassee.

What they've wrought is chaos. Anybody who ever followed the process of building a budget for cities in the area, knows this year has been Confusion with a capital "C".

There's been the so-called TRIM bill that was supposed to provide Truth In Millage. It started out as a good idea, or rather three good ideas, to protect the taxpayer from those voracious local governments.

The problems with TRIM is that, first, the governor had his idea about what the bill should include, then the house of representatives had its collective idea and the senate had its idea. They couldn't get together so they included everything and no one could really understand it.

Secondly, the more we look at local governments and compare them to the state legislature, the more it appears as though the legislature is the one who needs the TRIM bill. The only trouble is that the state wasn't effected by TRIM, only the city and county governments.

Then there was the homestead exemption amendment which the people of the state passed last Tuesday. In and of itself, the increase was probably a good thing but to set the effective date as immediately rather than the beginning of next year was unconscionable.

The local governments, because of the possibility the bill would pass, had to set two millage rates unless they were willing to sit down and go through the budget-cutting process that would allow them to use the same millage and forego a lot of revenue.

There has apparently been a lot of people who still haven't gotten the word but that's exactly what the cities of Belle Glade and South Bay did.

Other local governments, such as the county and the City of Pahokee, put together a compromise budget that incorporated cuts, although not to the bone as in Belle Glade and South Bay, but did include some increases.

By its very nature, the budgetary process is probably the dullest job facing a city commission all year. It's certainly the most difficult if the commissioners are doing their jobs.

It's also a fact that the budget makes for some of the dullest news we carry all year, and some of the most difficult to report accurately but we feel the effort is worthwhile because it's also the most important news we have to offer the public during the year.

This is when taxpayers have a chance to learn what they'll be paying in taxes and service fees for the rest of the year and what services they'll be receiving in return for their tax money. It affects the citizenry in the pocketbook and no effect is more direct.

Unfortunately, because of its dullness, the budget story is also one of the year's least read so we want to take this opportunity to say we read that local city governments did a good job this year under unusually trying situations.

We just thought our readers would like to know.

Meet the candidates Oct. 25

The timing was perfect and the Pahokee Business and Professional Women's Club couldn't have picked a better project in conjunction with National Business and Professional Women's Week than to give Glades citizens a chance to meet the political candidates involved in the Nov. 4 general election.

The BPW Club's Meet the Candidates night at Prince Theatre is scheduled for Saturday evening, Oct. 25 and 23 candidates including the national southern coordinator for the John Anderson campaign, have said they'd be present.

One of the facets of the evening that will be different from similar political gatherings is that microphones will be carried through the audience so the candidates, besides speaking, will have a chance to field questions.

That should be a plus for both the candidates and the voters interested enough to turn out for the program.

And we couldn't think of many more productive ways to learn something about the candidates and the issues than to show up for Meet the Candidates night.

A lot has been said about how important it is for citizens to exercise their right to vote, and we heartily concur, but it's no less important for those same voters to educate themselves so they aren't punching votes for attractive faces or demagogues.

It's for that reason we feel the BPW would be commended and it's for that reason we hope this will be the beginning of a new political tradition in the Glades.

There's been a lot of talk on the streets the past couple of weeks about those skinheads out at Glades Day School and that's great. The talk is an indication the Glades have latched onto something.

Court cracks probed

BELLE GLADE — City department heads were expected to provide input tonight on structural defects that led to the closing last week of racquetball courts at Airport Park only three months after the $17,000 facility was opened.

City commissioners said Monday night they wanted to hear both from department heads who had opinions as well as Bill Bentley, an engineer with the consulting firm of Bentley, Wild and Associates that cracks that have appeared in the walls and floors of the courts.

"Public Works Director Ron Sigmon said he had received a telephone call from Bentley Monday and Bentley had referred to 'numerous violations of the Standard Building Code and American Concrete Institute Codes during initial construction.'"

Public Works Director Ron Sigmon said he had received a telephone call from Bentley Monday and Bentley had referred to "numerous violations of the Standard Building Code and American Concrete Institute Codes during initial construction."

Public Utilities Director Kenneth Retterer, who was in charge of the city crew that built the courts, said he couldn't comment until he had some idea of the violations Bentley was referring to and Acting City Manager Frank Anderson said he was going to attempt to get a written report before a workshop scheduled for another project tonight.

Bentley recommended several corrective steps, offering alternatives which included a $19,000 price tag if a new six inch ground slab isn't poured and an extra $6,000 if the slab is poured.

Bentley said the existing slab doesn't immediately constitute a hazard but there is no guarantee the existing cracks won't grow larger than they now are.

Mayor Tom Altman opened the discussion when he said he would like written input from all involved department heads at tonight's meeting, had said earlier the most alarming aspect of the cracks was that one wall supporting spectator's balcony was loose at its foot and could be moved by kicking it.

Altman said Friday he had become aware of the problem earlier of last week and had gone out to inspect the court shortly after it had been padlocked by Sigmon.

The racquetball courts have proven to be one of the most popular facilities at the new park, which was dedicated in July, and, at the request of players, the city had begun a project to completely enclose the two courts planned originally for three-wall play.

That project was halted when the defects in the original construction was discovered.

The major issue last week was apparently whether the defects were in the planning or construction stage of the courts. Altman and Commissioner Dorothy Walker both said they had questions to ask Bentley tonight.

PAHOKEE — More than a week of events, culminating in a Meet the Candidates Night at the Prince Theatre Oct. 25, have already begun by the Pahokee Business and Professional Women's Club (BPW) to celebrate National BPW Week next week.

The action began Monday when Mayor Norma Norman signed a proclamation honoring the nation's 43 million working women and cited the local club's goal of better conditions for business women through the study of social, economic and political problems and to be of greater service to the community.

The club members turned the situation around Tuesday evening when they held their first awards banquet and honored Doris Wetherington as Pahokee's Woman of the Year, citing her contributions to the community as president of Pahokee Civic Pride Association.

Club President Kathi Ligon said the banquet and the award is planned to be the first of an annual event.

Miss Ligon said the club members intend to attend church together Sunday at the First Baptist Church in Pahokee and one day next week, they'll observe the national club's three-year theme of Health, Economics and Energy with a visit to Everglades Memorial Hospital, where they'll tour the hospital and have lunch together in the hospital cafeteria.

The week will be capped by the Meet the Candidates Night at 8 p.m. Oct. 25 at the would not have to pay the increase directly, but the housing authority would have to pay the increase.

Mills told the board members the City of Pahokee had not notified the authority of the amount of the rate increase but based on the public hearing the city held several weeks ago, the Authority could expect increases of approximately 62 cents per thousand gallons of water for apartments located outside of the city and 50 cents per thousand gallons for FHA apartments inside the city.

The board agreed to take up the issue of the garbage collection contracts at the next meeting.

Mills told the board the City of Pahokee was looking at a plan to turn its garbage collection over to Automated Systems of Homestead.

Board chairman Mead Maxwell said until the city decides what course it would take, the city garbage collection system would continue to collect inside the city and South Florida Sanitation will handle units outside the city.

In other business the board agreed to:

- Look into the possibility of selling the old site of the Everglades Labor Camp located on US 441, south of Pahokee.

- Purchase a trash dump truck from Glades Grove and Supply.
- Begin a utility Allowance Schedule study to be sent to HUD.
- Purchase two lawn mowers from Pahokee Sales Company.

In 1976, only 54.4 percent of America's eligible voters turned out for the Presidential election.

Chamber banquet tickets available

BELLE GLADE — Tickets for the Annual Chamber of Commerce Awards Banquet Thursday night will be available at the Chamber office for $15 per person through Thursday morning, according to Executive Secretary Jewel Crane.

Mr. Crane said some 175 tickets were still available as of Monday morning and they would be on sale through Thursday morning unless they're sold out first.

U.S. Senator Lawton Chiles will be the guest speaker for the banquet, which will take place at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Elks Club on Southeast Avenue E.

Others and directors for the coming year will be installed during the banquet by Dr. Cecil Conley, provost of Palm Beach Junior College.

The highlight of the banquet will be the naming of the Citizen of the Year, the Chairman of the Year, the Agri-businessman of the Year. Banquet Chairman Lynette Thompson said everything is on schedule for the banquet as of the Chamber's last board meeting on Thursday, Oct. 9.

In other business during the meeting, the directors:

—Voted to appraise the Chamber's old office building on Canal Street South at Main Street as the next step in determining whether to cooperate with the city in a swap for the city's original city hall, now located behind Kentucky Fried Chicken on Northwest Avenue D.

Mayor Tom Altman originally approached Chamber President Rupert C. "Bubba"

Mock on the swap, saying members of area garden clubs had approached him. J.D. Goggans, the owner of the old city hall, said he would be willing to go along with the trade. The purpose of the swap would be to move the old city hall to the current city complex and use it as a museum.

Agreed to endorse Associated Chambers Trust (ACT) Insurance Company. ACT representative, Tyler Daigneau said ACT specializes in group insurance for small companies with one to ten employees, which he said makes up 80 percent of the membership of most chamber of commerce. The company is also unique in that it sells insurance only to members of local chambers through local insurance agents. Daigneau said the company program is designed so the individual business can pick what the owner wants.

There was some discussion about whether the Chamber ought to endorse any particular business, with Frank Green commenting it hasn't done so in the past. Director D. Bill Mathis said he thought this might be a function the Chamber should consider.

"I think it's a good thing for us to offer it (the insurance)," Mathis said. "At least it shows the members we're trying to do something for them."

—Heard a report from incoming President Gordon Corbin that plans for the Nov. 9 regatta are well on their way. The price for the barbecue chicken dinners was set at $5 per plate.

—Heard a report from Miss Crane that the membership of the Chamber is now 251, the first time in years the membership has climbed higher than 250.

CHIROPRACTIC TODAY SCIATICA

You may be sure that anyone who has suffered through a full blown case of sciatica will agree that the pain is one of life's most agonizing experiences. Because there is no other pain quite like it, it is difficult to make a comparison, but the worst toothache imaginable is of about the same magnitude as the devastating pain of acute sciatica.

Sciatica is a frequently misunderstood and underrated disease condition. It is often mistakenly called sciatica rheumatism. Some refer to it as lumbago, while others think of sciatica as being any low back or hip pain.

Actually, sciatica is a painful inflammation of the sciatic nerve which supplies the tissues of the thigh, lower leg, and foot. It is most often caused by a pinching of one or more spinal nerve roots between spinal bones (vertebrae) of the lower back.

The pain of sciatica is so excruciating that sufferers cannot even find relief by confining themselves to bed. Pains in the low back and the backs of the legs result from inflammation of the large sciatic nerve. This in turn is due to spinal imbalance which causes a patient to lean to one side.

Correction of the cause of the spinal imbalance results in relief of the condition, which can be accomplished through chiropractic treatment. Phone today.

TANHE observes National Lunch Week with parent breakfast

BELLE GLADE — In observance of National School Lunch Week, Lake Shore Elementary school nutrition committee, "Team Approach to Nutrition and Health Education" (TANHE) sponsored a special parent's breakfast day at the school Tuesday morning, Oct. 14.

Mrs. Sharon Knowlton, West Area Schools Food and Nutrition Supervisor and Mrs. Mary Maddox, Food service manager at Lake Shore Elementary and Middle School along with TANHE presented informational flashes on the proper foods and nutrition. The student members of TANHE gave a skit and the cafeteria staff served visiting parents a nutritious breakfast with foods from the four basic food groups: meat, bread, milk, and fruit and vegetables.

Mrs. Knowlton said although the school provides well balanced nutritious meals to the students containing foods from the four basic food groups, parents can share in the process by serving the proper foods at home.

By Charlie Burkett
Farmers may be leaving 60 million dollars out in the field. That's the amazing figure some scientists have come up with during a special study on energy alternatives. First, some basics. All oil products come from cellulose materials. Plants, especially plant stalks, are largely cellulose. There are a lot of stalks left in the field. Testing the fuel efficiency of this farm residue was the industrial giant, General Motors. Their engineers used a mixture of 10 percent cornstalks for boiler fuel and said the results indicated a successful application of as high as 80 percent cornstalks could be used to fire the boilers. Economic determinations made on the basis of the current value of coal indicate that those stalks particularly high in cellulose content could be worth as much as 20 dollars a ton. Ag officials say the amount of stalks available each year would total as high as 450-million tons.

Pahokee cuts taxes, hikes garbage rates

Lower taxes and higher garbage rates was the verdict handed down Thursday night when Pahokee city councilmen tentatively lowered Pahokee property taxes to 6.5 mills and hiked the garbage collection fee to $7.50.

The compromise came about after citizens claimed the 8.0 millage rate was too high and that non-property owners were receiving services paid for by property owners taxes.

City Clerk Betty McCoy said Pahokee needs an additional $52,000 money already accounted for in the budget by raising the millage from 4.9 to 8.0. "I would be more than happy to pay an additional $2 on my garbage bill than to see my taxes nearly double," Jo Hatton said.

Pahokee residents currently pay a $6 garbage collection fee.

McCoy said either lowering the millage one point or raising the collection rate one dollar would generate approximately $25,000 in revenue.

"But the money would be more equally represented among the property owners and those who pay no property tax, if the garbage was increased," councilman Curtis Miners added.

A motion to set the millage rate at 7.0 ended in a deadlock. Councilmen Hugo Rainier and Miners agreed the tax rate should be lowered while George Rashley and chairman Billy McKinstry said a lower rate would not give residents the services desired. Councilman Jon Mock was not present to break the tie.

After much discussion, the council unanimously agreed on a compromise:

the tax millage rate would be set at 6.5 or 6.50 per $1,000 of assessed property and the garbage collection rate would be hiked to $7.50. McKinstry said the new fee would apply only to the 90-gallon garbage container, all others would remain the same.

A spokesman for Automated Systems, a disposal company currently negotiating a contract with the city to take over garbage collection, said the new rates will probably effect the terms of the contract.

In other city business, at its regular meeting Tuesday night the council agreed to retroactively grant a seven percent salary increase to all city department heads. The increase would be effective as of Oct. 1 and was passed over McKinstry's objections. Department employees received a seven percent increase on Oct. 1. McKinstry said at least one department head does not have enough responsibility to warrant a salary increase.

Raiders take easy 48-0 rout over Rams

GREG BAIN (32) gathers the ball in and pounds around end for quick yardage early in the Twin Lake game Friday evening as Jessie Hester (42) provides downfield blocking against a hapless Ram. Glades Central boosted its aggregate score for the first five games to 228-33 and Bain maintained his area lead in scoring with 80 points for the season.

BELLE GLADE — If area football teams can forget, as one coach was quoted last week, about running on the Atlantic team, the Eagles had best look to their air defenses Friday when they face Glades Central's undefeated Raiders for the District

14AAA title. Head Raider Ben McCoy proved Friday in a 48-0 rout of Twin Lakes that he's like lightning. The Rams mounted a fairly decent rushing defense so McCoy sent in his aerial attack for four touchdowns. He takes the easy route to a rout. "They've (Atlantic) got a pretty good line," McCoy said Monday, "so if they put up a good rushing defense, we'll just go to the air. Why make it tough for yourself?" McCoy's idea of a stiff ground defense, in all honesty, was the Rams' ability to pull off what no other team this year has done. They managed to force the Raiders to punt on their first possession of the ball and then again on their second possession. The Rams made a mistake on their second offensive series, however, and punted the ball out from their own 10 yard line to the mid-field stripe. Their second mistake in the same series was to punt to the turf covered by ace running back Greg Bain, who gathered the ball in on his own 49 and sprinted 51 yards for a touchdown, then put the icing on the cake by ramming his way through the Ram line for a two-point conversion. That gave the Raiders an 8-0 lead with 3:14 left in the first quarter.

The Raider offense made its adjustment less than two minutes later, after the defense forced another Ram punt to the Raider 29. Quarterback Jacob Rhames dropped back and rifled a pass to wide receiver Jessie Hester, who never broke stride as he completed a 71-yard touchdown pass play. Rhames kicked the extra point as the Raiders had a 15-0 lead with 1:06 left in the period.

"That's all right," McCoy crowed on the sideline. "Let 'em defend the run. We'll pass!"

And pass the Raiders did. Rhames and Hester teamed up, again on first play from scrimmage, with the same post pattern for a 64-yard touchdown play with 10:29 left in the second period.

They did it again a few minutes later after the Raider defense forced a Ram kick to the Glades Central 42 yard line, but that 58 yard scoring pass was called back on a clipping penalty.

The only time the Rams were able to defend the post pattern pass was four plays later when Rhames, by then on the Twin Lakes 30, threw a pass to his right instead of the left side of the field and it was intercepted on the Ram 7.

The Rams were able to force the ball back to their own 18 before the ball was jarred loose and Everton McCallon recovered it on the Twin Lakes 13 yard line. Glades Central running back Willie McCoy lost a yard on the ground on the next play, followed by two seven-yard gains by Bain, scoring on the second run for his second touchdown of the night.

Rhames kicked again and the Raiders went into the half with a 29-0 lead.

Bain once again didn't measure up to his goal of 100 yards a game Friday night, but again it was because McCoy chose to use reserve runners to give them the practice, also because he decided on an air attack instead of depending on the infantry.

A measure of the two teams' relative efficiency, however, was shown by the Raiders' total offense of 219 yards while holding Twin Lakes to 15. McCoy stuck to his reserves during the second half in the offensive backfield.

The Raider defense struck quickly in the second half when Stevie Sneed stripped the ball from a Ram running back at the Twin Lakes 54 and sprinted into the end zone to make it a 35-0 lead for the Raiders with 9:59 left in the third period.

The Raider defense held Twin Lakes to 15 yards on their next series, forcing a punt on fourth and 11. Three plays later, Rhames threw the slightly overthrown ball before gaining control on the dead run for a 43-yard scoring pass. Rhames and the Raiders held a 42-0 lead with 6:25 left in the period.

The last score came at the end of the Raiders' next possession, when Rhames and McCoy teamed up again, this time for a 45-yard scoring bomb, again on that same post pattern. McCoy slipped and fell on a two-point conversion attempt and the score remained the same from 1:08 in the third period.

The Rams tried a ball control game plan on their next possession after the ensuing kickoff, holding onto the ball for 16 plays netting only one yard.

The series started on the Twin Lakes 21 yard line, where the kickoff after the Raiders' previous score wound up. A total of three penalty calls were made in the series, which saw the Rams penetrate to the Glades Central 31, the Rams' greatest threat of the night.

The Glades Central

defense hung tough on the next play, however, forcing a fumble that was recovered by the Rams but ended with the running back being sacked at his own 31 yard line... which gave Twin Lakes the ball on a second down and 62 situation. Two plays later, Curtis Marshall recovered another fumble on the Ram 22 yard line, one yard from where Twin Lakes had started the drive 16 plays earlier.

The Raiders returned the Rams' favor three plays later when, on third and 11, a field goal attempt was made under the impression it was fourth down and the Rams received the ball again for one more futile attempt to score before the game ended. Glades Central churned out 120 yards on the ground and another 255 in the air, compared to 37 yards in the air for Twin Lakes and minus one on the ground.

On defense, McCallon and Stanley Johnson made 11 tackles each, followed by Tony Moore and Curtis Marshall with ten each and Willie Thomas with another nine. Marshall and McCallon recovered a fumble each and Sneed led over his pass interception and score with six tackles.

On offense, Bain rushed five times for 41 yards and added two more touchdowns for a total of 13 for the year while Hester's two brought his total to seven for the season. Willie McCoy rushed six times for 27 yards and caught three passes for 119 yards in the air while Hester caught two for 135. Rand Rutledge rushed eight times for 28 yards.

The Raiders have now outscored their five opponents this year by a combined score of 228 to 33, averaging 45.6 points per game while holding the opposition to 6.6 points per game.

Pahokee JV beats Clewiston

Clewiston High School's junior varsity football team lost a close, see-saw game 22-13 to Pahokee Thursday, Oct. 9 at Cane Field.

Clewiston scored first on Willie Benson's 32 yard run in the first quarter after Pahokee had turned over the ball on downs. Roger Walker kicked the extra point to make Clewiston's lead 7-0.

Pahokee evened the score early in the second quarter and went ahead 9-7 with a two point conversion.

Towards the end of the first half, Clewiston threatened to go into the lead, with quarterback Roger Walker passing 17 yards to Marvin Dixon. But Dixon was stopped on the Pahokee five yard line as time expired.

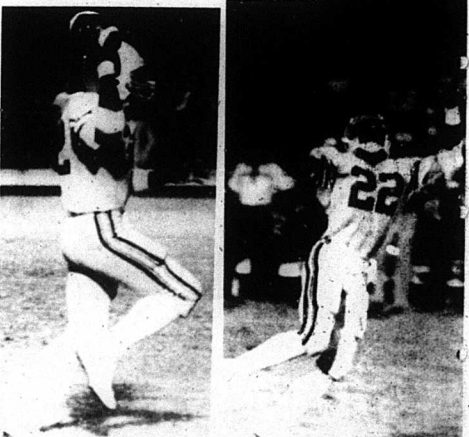

Clewiston continued the pressure in the third quarter, staying mostly on the ground with the rushing of Hal White and Willie Benson. White picked up a first down at his own 43 and two plays later ran 14 yards to the Pahokee 43. White carried the ball two more consecutive times, gaining eight yards to the 35. Benson then carried for nine yards to the 26. And a face mask penalty against the Blue Devils set the Pahokee JV back on its own 12. An encroachment penalty against Pahokee moved Clewiston to the seven.

The budding drive wilted, however, on two fumbles as the young Tigers fell back from the goal line and attempted a 24 yard field goal, which went awry.

Pahokee's offense took over and moved the ball downfield, scoring on a 15 yard pass with three seconds left in the third quarter. A second two point conversion made the score 16-7.

Benson took the ensuing kickoff back to his own 30 yard line. A face mask penalty moved Clewiston up to the 45 yard line. Two plays later, Walker connected with Marvin Dixon on a 17 yard pass play, setting Clewiston up at the Pahokee 33 yard line.

Pahokee was called for pass interference on a second down

TWO SCORES by the Glades Central Raiders were made against Twin Lakes Friday when Greg Bain danced across for a two point conversion (left) and Willie McCoy leapt for a touchdown pass by Jacob Rhames.

Gators win 42-0 homecoming victory

GLADES DAY Homecoming Queen Diana Morgan with escort Greg Chancey.

By Wayne Wallace
Fifth-ranked Glades Day School continued its winning ways last Friday with a decisive 42-0 victory over LaBelle.

The Gators began their assault in the opening minute of play when the Cowboy center snapped the ball out of the LaBelle end zone, giving the Gators a two-point lead.

After returning the Cowboys free kick to the mid-field mark, the Gators quickly moved into scoring position following a ten-yard pass to Richard Schiele and an 11-yard run by quarterback Nacho Bueno. Fullback Jason Shelton then sprinted 20 yards for a touchdown, and put the icing on the cake by kicking the point after.

Glades Day's second touchdown came early in the second quarter, with Bueno mixing around ends, pitch-outs, up-the-middle and an occasional pass, the Gators pushed to the LaBelle three-yard-line. Two plays later Bueno completed a pass to running back Scott Meredith for the score.

The Cowboys first serious threat came after returning the Gator kick-off to the 36 and then gaining an additional 15 yards on a clipping penalty. However the Gator defense, which allowed only four LaBelle first downs during the game, held and the Cowboys were forced to punt from Glades Day's 49-yard-line.

The Gators wasted no time. After advancing to their own 43-yard-line, Bueno rifled a 57-yard bomb to wide-receiver Greg Chancey for the Gators third touchdown of the half.

Glades Day continued their rushing attack in the third quarter, as Julio Rivas, Todd Humphrey, and Bueno once again put the Gators in scoring position at the Cowboy 35-yard line. An 18 yard completion to Tommy Wilson put the Gators knocking on the Cowboy's door.

The Gators were temporarily denied another scoring opportunity after an exchange of fumbles heaved the Gators back to the LaBelle 40-yard line. Undaunted by the setback, the Gator blitzkrieg soon had the Cowboys defense pinned down inside their own 20-yard-line. One play later Bueno completed a 21-yard toss to Wilson to give the Gators a 27-0 lead. Shelton's PAT made it 28-0.

The Cowboys refused to go home to the range, however and returned Glades Day kickoff to the 45-yard-line. Once again the defense held, and a blocked punt by Gary Herick gave the Gators possession inside LaBelle territory.

Glades Day head coach Byron Walker then put backup quarterback Scott Meredith at the helm. Meredith quickly completed a 17-yard pass to Shelton and then sent Humphrey scrambling over the Cowboy goal line defense for the score.

At this point the Cowboys realized this was indeed the last roundup. But the Gators were not through. After forcing another LaBelle punt, Meredith, aided by the dual rushing threat of Rivas and Humphrey, marched the Gators to the LaBelle 17-yard line. Meredith then scampered the distance to clinch the Gators 42-0 victory.

Glades Day dominated the game on the field as well as in the statistics book. The Gators had 16 first downs to the Cowboys 4, rushed for 250 yards to 67 yards, and passed for 40 yards to 11 yards. Individual rushing leaders for the Gators were Bueno, 14 carries for 71 yards; Shelton, 5 carries for 51 yards; Rivas, 12 carries for 49 yards; and Humphrey, 6 carries for 31 yards. Bueno completed seven of fourteen passes for 124 yards and Meredith completed one 17-yard pass.

The third-ranked Gators are off this weekend, but will travel to Fort Pierce on Oct. 25 to meet John Carroll High School.

Crusaders lose

BELLE GLADE—With his best defensive player and one of his best linemen injured Friday in a 34-15 loss to St. Edwards of Vero Beach, Christian Day School football coach Gus Harmon said the Crusaders may be only 12 strong Saturday evening against Berean Academy.

"Scott Hudson had his bell rung," Harmon said, "and he may not be able to play but it's definite Kent Davis won't be able to play." He said Davis was the Crusaders' leading defensive player with 62 tackles to his credit.

Depth has been one of Harmon's greatest problems through the first half of the season. He has never dressed out more than 14 players this year, which left three reserves for him to call on in any game.

But if Davis and Hudson are both out of action this Saturday, Harmon and Larry Lee, his assistant coach, will outnumber the players on the sidelines.

Harmon said a lack of depth has been a definite problem throughout the season and made itself acutely felt Friday.

The Crusaders started out well, though, scoring on a 63-yard touchdown run by Alex Morales on the first play from scrimmage, using an away left formation that was so effective on the first play of Christian Day's game the previous week against Boca Academy.

Ronnie Cameron kicked the extra point and the Crusaders led, 7-0 with only seconds elapsed on the clock.

St. Edwards' first score came moments later when Tony Duboy fumbled a punt by St. Edwards and St. Edwards recovered on the Crusader 4 yard line, pushing it into the end zone a play later. Their kick failed and the score was 7-6.

On the following kickoff, Kent Davis starred in a seven-play, 67 yard drive, carrying for 57 yards and capping the drive with a two-yard scoring run. The Crusaders faked an extra point kick and Morales threw a two-point conversion pass to Duboy and the Crusaders extended their lead, 15-6 in the closing moments of the first quarter.

The Crusaders kicked off to St. Edwards and once again held on defense after a drive of 35 yards, forcing a punt to the CDS 13-yard line. After Christian Day carried the ball to their own 22-yard line, a shanked, six-yard punt set up the next score, a 32 yard drive to paydior for St. Edwards, narrowing the Crusader lead to 15-12.

Christian Day drove the ball out to their own 22 yard line after the kickoff but had more bad luck on the fourth down punt when the ball was snapped over Davis' head and St. Edwards recovered in the end zone for a two point safety, and narrowing the lead further to 15-14. St. Edwards went into the lead on the next series of plays, accepting another shanked kick from the Christian Day 20 to their own 38 yard line and pushing it into the end zone for a touchdown, followed by a two point conversion to take a 22-15 lead.

Christian Day managed to move the ball to the midfield stripe on the next series following the kickoff but a pair of 15-yard penalties and a quarterback sack shoved the ball back from the 50 to the CDS 17, where still another short punt, this one for only four yards, set up the next TD for St. Edwards from the Crusader 21, giving them a 28-15 edge going into the half.

The wind was against St. Edwards in the third period and, after the Crusaders held them and forced a short fourth down punt which gave them the ball on the St. Edwards' 30.

"We drove to the seven yard line," Harmon said, "and on third and goal, Morales overthrew the ball, trying to connect with Davis in the end zone. On fourth down, Morales ran and was stopped at the one foot line."

On the next series of downs, St. Edwards drove the ball 96 yards to the Crusader three, only to cough up the ball on there on a fourth down play.

It was a defensive game after that, with St. Edwards picking up six more points on the strength of two field goals.

The Berean game will be played at 8 p.m. Saturday in Palm Beach Gardens stadium.

LABELLE FULLBACK pushes his way through the Glades Day defensive line, picking up one of only four Cowboy first downs in the 42-0 Gator victory Friday night.

CDS wins, loses

BELLE GLADE—The Christian Day School girls volleyball team added broke even last week, winning a match against LaBelle and dropping one to Benjamin.

The Lady Crusaders swept the LaBelle match in two straight games, winning by identical 15-7 scores against the Cowboys.

They weren't as lucky on Thursday, however, when playing the Lady Buccaneers. The Bucs won the first game, 15-12 but the Crusaders came from behind in the second game and won, 16-14. The Bucs won the tie-breaker with a score of 15-8.

Seniors Paula Anderson and Joni Davis led the Crusaders in scoring, with Kimberly Chamblee, Lisa Acree and Celia Pate helping them out.

May, moving the young Tigers to the Pahokee 19. An offside call moved Clewiston to the 14. White's five yard run put the Tigers on the Pahokee eight.

An offside penalty set the Tigers back to the 15 yard line. Walker passed to Rick Hornsby, who took the ball to the Blue Devil three yard line before being tackled. Clewiston's hopes for a second touchdown withered on an illegal procedure call, two incomplete passes, and a fourth down run which came up short.

Pahokee took over at its own six yard line, only to fumble to Clewiston's Chuck Pelham, who recovered the ball at the 16 yard line.

Pahokee's defense threw back the Clewiston offense on 10 plays, but on third down, Hal White rushed 19 yards to the one yard line. Willie Benson scored on the next play to make the score 22-13. A try for a two point conversion was unsuccessful. Clewiston's last hope after turning the game around failed as Pahokee denied the Tigers an on-sides kick. The young Blue Devils let the final 1:17 remaining in the game expire.

"They were beating us off the line offensively and coming after us on defense," Coach John Chapman said.

Boat explodes

BELLE GLADE—A Belle Glade man, a Canal Point woman and her three children were in the waters of the Rim Canal for about a minute Sunday afternoon after jumping from a burning boat that exploded after they made their escape.

The boat, a 19-foot

Thunderbird being piloted by Ron Sigmon of 802 S.W. 16th St. and Sigmon said it was a total loss.

Sigmon, the city public works director, said he and Debbie Moss and her children, Cheryl, 3, Tracy, 1, and James Moss, 9, all of Canal Point, were moving down the Rim Canal when the boat ran out of gas.

He said he switched tanks to one of two spare six-gallon tanks he had on board and when he attempted to restart the engine, there was a spark and a flame.

"I told Debbie and the kids to grab life jackets and jump overboard," he said. "They jumped and I grabbed the fire extinguisher and tried to put the fire out. I almost had it out when it jumped to the tanks. When it jumped to the tank, I jumped."

"We were in the water about a minute," he went on, "when a boat with some members of the (Sunshine Water Sports Limited) Ski Club came along and picked us up and we headed back to Slim's."

"It wasn't until we started back to Slim's that the boat blew up."

Sigmon said the people in the rescue boat were Tony Bussley, Cindy Simmons, Tim Bowman, David Norwood and a man named John.

He said the only injury was a minor burn on his left leg.

CLEWISTON quarterback Roger Walker found himself in a difficult position on this play.

It's time for concern about the quality of life

Time was when the life quality of South Florida was the envy of the nation. Not so anymore. It all started back in the 1950s when the ambitious types commenced large scale dredging and filling projects to reclaim wetlands in order that the land could be developed and made a more hospitable place for the millions of people who would come to Florida in coming years.

Unfortunately, at that time, little was known of the sciences relating to environment and ecology. Land reclamation activity continued unabated for well over 50 years until, today, our life quality is but a pale comparison to what it was even 10 or 15 years ago.

One must understand that this was all done in the name of progress. Today we are a backward. We sit atop the pollution of our air, land and water and we will shortly end up having nothing of this beautiful Florida which attracted us to it in the first place.

While we have State laws designed to protect the environment and State agencies to carry out the intent of those laws we also have the problem [those agencies responsible for carrying out those laws] many instances. As one authority put it, "Perhaps too many agencies and too many commissions are about the problems in their entirety as was the original intention."

Thank goodness, one agency at least, is making an effort to do something effective to what is left. That is the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission.

The following is printed in its entirety. "An Overview of Florida's Fisheries Problems." A statement by the Division of Fisheries of the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission as of September 19, 1980.

On June 12 of this year ten fish died in the St. Johns River. Nearly all game fish within a six-mile section were eliminated. A Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission biologist predicted that it would happen again, soon. One month later on July 14 another ten million fish died, poisoned by the very environment in which they lived. Altered by man and his activities, the environment could no longer support fish life.

Twenty years ago 63,375 fish died from pollution caused fish kills in Florida. In 1980 the loss jumped to over 1/4 million fish. Out of that Florida it is estimated that 700,000 acres are seriously threatened or no longer able to sustain quality freshwater sport fishing. An additional one million acres are considered to be in jeopardy and will not reverse in short order 50% of Florida's fresh waters have been negatively altered or degraded into a less productive state.

How has this happened in such a short time? Land reclamation by ditching, filling and flood control activities involving channelization and flood plain destruction has stabilized and lowered water levels throughout Florida. As a result, hundreds of thousands of acres of productive marshland and free-flowing and previously free-flowing ing river systems have been destroyed. These wetlands historically provided water retention areas, purified water as it flowed through the system, and provided habitat absolutely essential to the fish and wildlife species.

Water pollution has also become a primary concern. High-level nutrient discharge from sewage treatment plants and runoff from developed uplands contributes to excessive growth of algae and other problems within our lakes such as rapid sediment buildup and production of undesirable types of vegetation. These algae "blooms" contribute to the long-term degradation of our remaining aquatic habitat and directly cause short-term massive fish kills.

The Commission is faced with the management of an increasing number of aquatic systems which are under severe stress, not only from the major causative factors previously mentioned, but also from the increasing number of smaller, localized problems. Basically, the natural aquatic habitat which is crucial for the survival of fish and wildlife species has shrunk dramatically, and what is left is being destroyed on a piecemeal basis.

Consider the following facts:

- Over 200,000 acres of marsh, the lifeblood of a river, have been diked off or drained on the St. Johns River.
- Fish kills are a common occurrence in the Oklawaha chain of lakes which includes more than 70,000 acres of water.
- Lake Apopka, a 31,000-acre lake, once considered one of the best fishing lakes in the country during the 1940's, today supports a fish population consisting almost exclusively of rough fish. A recent estimate of the cost to restore the lake approached 30 million dollars.
- In 1960, a total of four pollution-related fish kills in Florida were reported by the Environmental Protection Agency. In 1971, this number had risen to 62 with more than 316 million fish killed. By August 1980, 16 million fish have so far been killed in the St. Johns River.
- The Kissimmee River, once a beautiful river flowing 100 miles, has been reduced to 50 miles of canal by channelization. More than 80% of its associated marshes have been eliminated.
- Numerous urban lakes in Florida are showing signs of accelerated decay either by weed problems, algae growths, or septic, bacterial hazards. The incidence of disease transmitted by waterborne organisms continues to escalate with organic pollution, resulting in many public lakes pooled "unsafe for water-contact sports" by local health officials. Periodic die-offs of fish, wildlife, and animals are increasingly related to epidemics of aquatic bacteria or protozoan infections.

These facts point out where we have been. NOW HERE IS WHAT IT MAY COST:

- We are risking the Nation's richest bass and panfish resource; the world's best bass fishing.
- We are risking 75,000 freshwater fishing related jobs involving over 300 million dollars in annual wages and salaries.
- We are risking 278 million dollars a year generated by angling tourists.
- We are risking 64 million man-days of recreation annually involving 2 million people.
- We are risking an annual cash flow of 80 million dollars just for sales of poles, rods, reels, and tackle.

In short, we are causing destroying an annual 700 million dollar Florida industry and no one seems to understand why! We must also be aware that these environmental impacts are not limited to freshwater resources but have far-reaching degrading effects on our estuarine, brackish, bay and estuaries. Take for example the demise of the once famous fishery resources of the Indian River Lagoon. Ten Thousand Islands region. In man's effort to "control" the precious waters of the Everglades he managed to destroy one of the most productive tropical estuaries in the world, reducing its fisheries potential to a mere remnant of its former level.

The late 1960s saw the birth of a nationwide environmental movement which led to the creation of State and Federal agencies charged with protecting our natural resources. Legislation was promulgated to provide these agencies with regulatory and enforcement powers to accomplish this mission.

The principal reason for not fully accomplishing most environmental objectives is the classic conflict that constantly arises between economic exploitation and the protection of natural resources. Past direction has been an "either/or" proposition. Decision-makers choose between the two objectives: either economic development or a quality natural environment — but not both.

There has been no comprehensive and well organized movement to determine why we can not achieve both objectives and why we have failed to apply the knowledge and technical expertise we possess to achieve these dual goals.

As Florida continues to grow, our increasing population places additional demands on finite natural resources. Each year the remaining resources continue to decline in quality as a result of man's irresponsible activities. Yet at the same time, the human demand for recreational resources, including exploitable fish and wildlife populations, increases. Our predilections for the future are not good; unless the State immediately implements both remedial and protective measures, we will experience a continued decline in the quality of our natural resources, and commensurate, of human life itself.

The time is past for bemoaning the damage of decades of irreversible environmental neglect. A commitment must be made and will be made by this agency to aggressively pursue a future course that protects wildlife and fisheries resources. These resources must no longer take a backseat when decisions are made for the State's growth and expansion. Economics and the environment can be compatible.

Although scientific research has increased our understanding of the causes and effects of pollution in its many forms, public awareness and enforcement of environmental laws have lagged. As pressure on our fish and wildlife resources increases, many current practices may have to be altered or abandoned to avoid environmental consequences we have already experienced. The fact is that interpretation and enforcement of existing laws are falling far behind technical awareness of the problems. Existing water quality standards and wildlife protection laws must be enforced if resource needs are to be protected.

The Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission is charged under the State Constitution with the management and protection of our natural wildlife and freshwater aquatic life. While the Commission has been delegated this constitutional responsibility, our statutory agencies have been given regulatory and enforcement authority over water quality, environmental protection, and flood control; all of which have significant impact on aquatic resources. The Commission has depended on other agencies to carry out their responsibilities and protect aquatic habitat. This relationship has been successful in some areas, but not in others.

Fish and wildlife must be given equal consideration in the decision-making process directly affecting their habitat. The creation of a Florida Fish and Wildlife Coordination Act would be a major step in this direction. Established law would place the Commission in an advisory capacity to provide formal input into governmental decisions and programs on fish and wildlife considerations. The permitting or program agency would be required to weigh this information in its final plan or action. Yet power would not be involved, at least some priority could be given to wildlife values.

Ultimately, environmental laws must be aggressively enforced and more stringent ones passed if the State is to fulfill its obligation to this and future generations. If we settle for less, the final loser will not only be the State's aquatic resources but also the people of Florida.

Next week we will print a Resolution as drawn up by the Commission. It's sole purpose is to curtail the steady deterioration of an unrenounceable resource that is so vital today and in the future.

In anticipation of the opening of the hunting season, the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission is offering weekend Hunter Education classes throughout South Florida.

These classes are being held October 18 and 19 at a convenience to hunters who wish to hunt in a state that requires completion of the course. said Jim Truitt, Hunter Education Officer for the Commission's Everglades Region.

At the present time, 34 states do require hunter education certification. Certification cards are also required in some federal refuges in Florida for duck hunters.

"Through this workshop, a sportsman can get his card in two days rather than take the regular course which usually is

Tip of the week

Most of us have experienced the loss of balance while poling to push a boat away from a tree, rock or other obstacle. Most of us, I believe, will agree that the rounded end of a paddle or oar was not designed for this purpose. To get around this many carry a boat hook or spike pole for this purpose. The problem here is that the latter tend to take up a lot of room in a craft and are not used very often.

Since the law says you will carry an oar or paddle in your craft at all times you must, re-shape the blade of these items so that they will do the job for you when called upon. Simply changing the shape of the blade from convex to concave as illustrated below. It could save you an unexpected bath. Changing the blade in this manner will have little or no bearing on its propulsion properties should you have occasion to use it for this purpose.

Stone crab season starts

TALLAHASSEE — The 1980 stone crab season opens at 12:01 a.m. Wednesday, Oct. 15, Col. Joe Brown, director of the Florida Department of Natural Resources' Division of Law Enforcement, announced today.

Only stone crab claws which measure two and three-quarter inches or more, measured by a straight line from the elbow to the tip of the lower immovable finger, shall be removed, according to state law. The live animal must also be returned to the same area where taken. A permit is required for persons taking stone crabs by traps, and all traps must be constructed of wood or have a biodegradable panel.

giving 8 pounds 3 ounces caught on the shoreline edge on a plastic worm. Speckled Perch hunters went to Ralph Snyder also of Belle Glade with a 15 oz. model. Ms. Louise Aunstaugh of Wellington in Palm Beach County and her party limited out on Speckled Perch on Missouri minnows. The fish were caught in the Rim Canal in the vicinity of the South Bay Curve fishing approximately 14-15' depths.

Verne Thatcher of Jolly Roger Marina in Clewiston says bass were good with fish of two to five pounds coming in. The Eastwall area and the lake edges were the most productive. Live Shiners, Plastic Worms and top water lures started most of the catching. Speckled perch fishing started out good but slowed considerably when fishermen used up all their bait and no more was immediately available. Bluegill and shellcrackers were slow. Conditions permitting, look for bass fishing to continue to improve. The deep holes, Rim Canal and lake edges should get better as far as the Specks are concerned. The depleted bluegill could be a significant factor. Except for hatches bluegill will be on the decline as will Shellcrackers.

Buddy Norris of Slim's Camp in Belle Glade tells us the drop in wind conditions were for good bass fishing. Fish in the two to five pound category were numerous. Live Shiners, Plastic Worms and Bang O Lures proved best. In their weekly contest for the largest bass and largest Crappie, James Hopper of Belle Glade had the largest bass

Area fishing report

BY LORNE RACICOT

Fisherman's luck can't be all bad. The winds that have been hampering their efforts all during the week abated sufficiently to allow them to get to their favorite fishing holes. Bass co-operated for those able to locate their using areas. Many good catches were made with some fish in the lunker category.

Crappie (speckled perch) were very active. Most catches were made on Missouri minnows. Unfortunately some camps ran out of the little rascals before the weekend was over. Bluegill and Shellcrackers are definitely on the decline. Best bet on the former is to watch for "chizzwink" hatches. Locating one can result in excellent catches of better than average size 'gills.

How the fish are biting

Hello there fishing fans. Let's go a-fishing. Just load up the kids, dogs, cats, neighbors and friends, along with your array of tackle, and come on out to the old fishing hole.

The specks are still trying to make their presence known. Louise Aunstaugh and party (6 people) caught 300 specks on live minnows while drifting in the center of the rim canal involved. At least some priority could be given to wildlife values.

On the bass scene, fishing is still from good on artificial lures to excellent on shiners. The pepperglass bass on Grassy Island and South Shore are still producing good stringers of bass.

Farmers asked to make nominations

Area farmers are asked to nominate candidates of their choice to be on the ASC community committee ballot, says Marie L. Wilkins, County Executive Director. The ASC community committee election will be conducted from Nov. 21 to Dec. 1 by mail ballot. The three ASC communities are: Belle Glade, Coastal and Pahokee.

ASC committees are responsible for managing government farm programs on the local level. Palm Beach County farmers have the opportunity to nominate persons they feel would best serve the farm community.

Petitions may be submitted to the county ASCS office now through Oct. 27. In order to be valid, petitions must be limited to one nominee each, must include written certification that the nominee is willing to serve if elected, must be signed by at least three eligible farm voters in the ASC community, and must be received in the county ASCS office no later than Oct. 27.

A farmer may circulate or sign nominating petitions for as many candidates as he chooses. Anyone wishing to nominate a farmer for the ASC committee election may contact the county ASCS office for full details, including eligibility requirements for officeholders.

THE REAL THING took on new meaning last Friday when a Coca Cola truck rounded a turn at South Main and Avenue E in Belle Glade and a good portion of the load cascaded into the busy intersection. The driver lost no time in sweeping up the debris. Photo by Wayne Wallace

FOR WANT OF A TIRE, a freak accident Friday afternoon ended up with this car hung up on a suar rail on SR80 and the destruction of a new tow truck. Photo by Dean Jones

For want of a tire...

BELLE GLADE — A blown-out tire resulted in one car hung up on a guard rail on SR80 a half mile east of Duda Road Friday and a tow truck, dispatched to extricate the car from off the rail, being destroyed by fire.

The chain of events started when Daisy Mae Roundtree, 64, of 617 S.W. 13th St., started to pass two cars, all headed west, just inside the city limits.

Before Mrs. Roundtree could get around the two cars, the one in front had a tire blow out, causing the driver, So- vanne Aumoth, 27, of 108 N.W. Fourth St., to lose control and veer into the eastbound lane.

In an effort to avoid hitting Aumoth's car, Mrs. Roundtree swerved into the westbound lane, in front of the other automobile, and jumped the guard rail, with her car winding up facing the highway and the trunk hanging over Hillsboro Canal.

Belle Glade Patrolman Jim Sherrell called the Parry Wrecker Company to get Mrs. Roundtree's car off the guard rail and while Parrish's spanking new tow truck, which only had 82 miles on the odometer, was winning the car off the guard rail, the truck caught fire for still unexplained reasons and was totally destroyed before Belle Glade fire apparatus could get to the scene and extinguish the fire.

There were no injuries.

GCHS teacher dies Friday

BELLE GLADE — A Glades Central school teacher was killed early Saturday morning and three of her students were injured when the car they were in was struck head on by another Belle Glade resident on the way home from the Glades Central-Twin Lakes football game Friday night.

Dead was Joan Rebecca Latner, who celebrated her 27th birthday last Monday, of 1608 S.E. Ave. G, Lot 26. Miss Latner was a chorus teacher at Glades Central. Memorial services were held at the high school gymnasium. Funeral services were scheduled for Tuesday in her home town of Dover, near Tampa. She began teaching at Glades Central in 1978.

Injured and still held at Good Samaritan Hospital in West Palm Beach were Glen Randall McDaniel, 18, of Browns Farm Road, the driver of the other car; Brenda Edwards, 17 and Janice Mann, 16. Treated and released was Willie

Frank Lawrence, 16. McDaniel was listed in critical condition. Miss Edwards was in serious condition and Miss Mann was in fair condition. Lawrence attended the memorial service for Miss Latner and attempted to sing a song in remembrance but was unable to complete it.

Florida Highway Patrol Troopers J.O. Matheny and William Burroughs, who were the investigating and homicide officers working the accident, reported that McDaniel was eastbound on SR 80 about 1:30 a.m. Saturday when he swerved into the west bound lane and collided with Miss Latner's auto 2.1 miles east of town. The troopers said charges are pending.

Local man dies

BELLE GLADE — Funeral services for a local man who died when his car collided with an ice house early Sunday morning were held today.

Belle Glade Police Department Detective Robbie Bronson said there were no witnesses to the accident which took the life of Jerry P. Vulgamore, 23, of 1000 N.E. 22nd St. but said the time was estimated at somewhere between 12:30 and 1 a.m. Sunday.

Bronson said Vulgamore was traveling west on Northwest Avenue L when for some reason he lost control of his car and crossed the two eastbound lanes, jumped a curb at Northwest Ninth Street and rammed the east side of the Hayden Williams ice delivery building.

Vulgamore was pronounced dead at 2:35 a.m. at Glades General Hospital. Bronson said an autopsy was performed Monday morning, and the cause of death was determined as being internal injuries and shock.

Bronson said he was still investigating the accident.

JERRY P. VULGAMORE

BELLE GLADE — Funeral services for Jerry P. Vulgamore, who died Sunday morning in an auto accident, were held today at the First Baptist Church in Belle Glade with the Rev. B. Ray Sedham officiating.

Mr. Vulgamore, 23, of 1000 N.E. 22nd St., was a native of Americus, Ga. and came to Belle Glade with his family 17 years ago. He was a member of the First Baptist Church in Belle Glade and at the time of his death, he was employed at Tru-Flo Corporation in Belle Glade.

Survivors include his mother, Annie Sue Vulgamore of Belle Glade; one brother, William C. Jones of Hahn Air Force Base in Germany; three sisters, Kendra Snow of Belle Glade, Melody Forrester of Belle Glade and Cathy Glisson of Lake Worth.

Pallbearers were Harold Peacock, Troy Martin, Jeff Hooper, Randy Davidson, Gene Enfinger, Rick Calhoun, Willie Lee and Jeff Threlhold. Burial was at the Hillcrest Memorial Park in West Palm Beach. Mixson Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Miami man dies

SOUTH BAY — A Miami man was killed Friday afternoon when the automobile he was driving left US 27 23.4 miles south of town and struck a utility pole, injuring two of his passengers.

Dead at the scene was Jaime F. Prada, who had celebrated his 18th birthday the previous day, of Miami. Katherine Louise McCarthy, 18, of Miami suffered two broken legs and other injuries. She was transported to a hospital in West Palm Beach. Juan Carlos Ojeda, 17, had minor lacerations.

Florida Highway Patrol Troopers Handy Timmons and R. E. Cheek, who worked the accident, said Prada was traveling south when he passed another vehicle and, when he returned to the southbound lane, left the road and struck a utility pole.

Students help unravel lake mysteries

BY WAYNE WALLACE

At age 6,000, Lake Okeechobee is just a spring chicken, full of the mysteries of youth.

But nothing can remain secret forever and local high school students involved in a new program are aiding science's search for clues to Okeechobee's ecological puzzle.

Dr. Wilbur Curless is director of the Lake Okeechobee Glades Studies Program and three days a week students from area schools come down to the lake marina in Belle Glade with Curless and participate in various ecological experiments.

"The primary purpose of the program is to teach the kids the importance of the lake to this area," Curless said. "A lot of kids have lived here their whole life and never seen the big lake."

"The lake is the second biggest lake in the country, Curless said. But it is a young lake and it is a shallow lake (average depth nine feet) and that gives it properties most lakes do not have. In addition to the lake's ecology Curless said he hopes to teach the economical importance of the lake and some of the water management problems.

"It also gives the students first hand experience in scientific research," he said. Curless, who received his doctorate from Southern Baptist Seminary, said this research was valuable because so little had been done in the lake area.

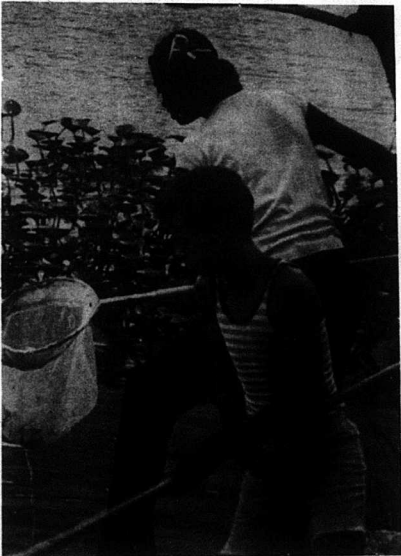

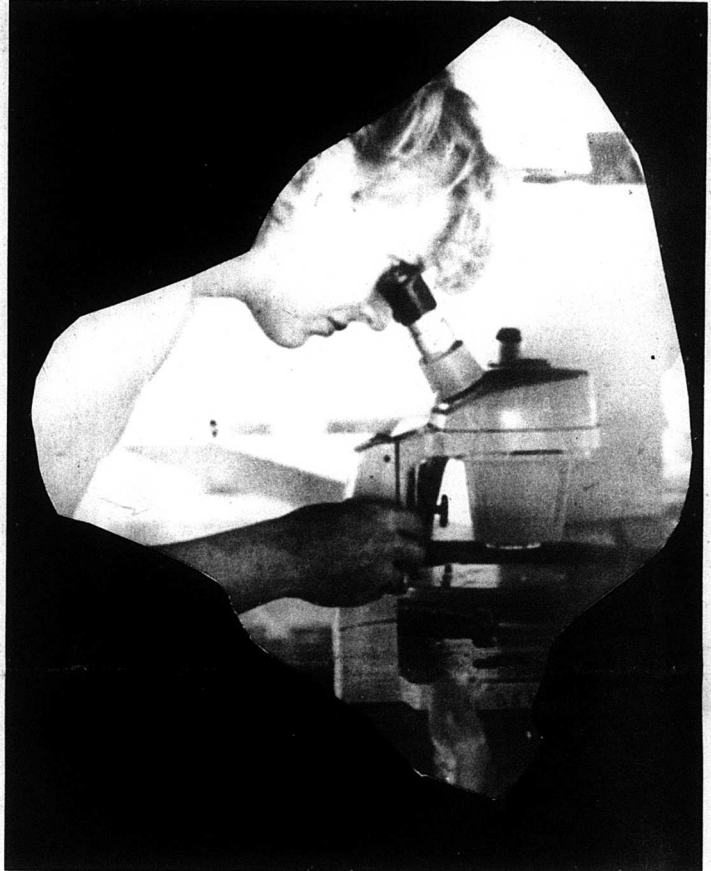

"The students are taking bottom samples, plankton net tows (the school board provides Curless with a boat), and oxygen level counts, all of which have been lacking in research in the past," Curless said.

The students arrive at the marina about 9:30 a.m., usually via school bus, and then walk across the bridge to the pavilion where Curless displays his array of microscopes, beakers and stoppered bottles.

The students who come to the lake are volunteers, it is not required curriculum. Most said they enjoyed the course, but a few said they came because "it was better than sitting in biology class."

Curless said he can take up to 30 students at a time. "I usually take the junior high schools on Wednesdays and Thursdays and the high schools on Friday. The students are generally from biology and advanced biology, chemistry and general science classes."

The program, which is funded by the school board, may be expanding soon. Curless said he hopes to set up projects for the elementary school level, for teachers and possibly adults in the community.

STUDENTS EXPLORE the lake shore, using their nets to scoop up anything of interest.

CURLESS INSTRUCTS students in the use of a "bottom-grabber," used to take samples of the lake's relatively unknown bottom life.

LEARNING TO THROW a cast net is part of living on the lake. Instructor Curless tries to incorporate cultural as well as ecological lessons into his program.

GCCH conducts leadership workshop

BELLE GLADE—A leadership workshop for student council officers and newly elected class officers was conducted Oct. 3 at Glades Central High School.

The workshop was conducted by Glades Central Principal Dr. Effie C. Grear. Assisting with the workshop were James Allen, Jr., student council sponsor; Cindy Taylor, student activities chairperson and Dr. Norman Shearin, assistant principal.

The workshop emphasized problem solving techniques, decision making, defining leadership roles, and activity planning. Student leaders were given problems to solve in connection with each of the areas included in the workshop. Tasks were to stress leadership and emphasize the importance of systematically getting tasks completed.

Dr. Grear has been involved in leadership workshops sponsored by the Florida High School Activities Association each summer at Seton University for more than eight years. The Oct. 3 workshop was a mini version of the five day workshop held each summer for student leaders throughout the state of Florida.

On affluent avenues like this one . . . and on the more modest streets and lanes as well . . . people leave and people come. For all of them, moving is a traumatic experience that touches deep chords of family life.

Psalms 121 was originally written as a "pilgrim song" for those journeying to Jerusalem to celebrate religious festivals. Perhaps its message is just as appropriate in our moving experiences . . .

The Lord shall preserve thy going out and thy coming in from this time forth and even for evermore.

Part of getting one's bearings in a new neighborhood is finding a place of worship where the family will continue or renew its spiritual life. There will be new friends there eager to welcome you . . . and to share with you their faith.

Bill Taylor cites his qualifications for office

BELLE GLADE - District One Palm Beach County Commission candidate William J. "Bill" Taylor cited his qualifications for the county position Monday to Belle Glade Rotarians, along with what he said are the primary problems facing commissioners over the next four years.

Taylor said taxes, inflation and too much government are the three greatest problems and the only way to solve them is by cutting the county level and working up through Tallahassee and Washington.

"If you were to take a four year leave of absence from your business," he said, "and you wanted to hire someone to manage it and take over power of attorney, you'd probably start by looking at the job resumes and the qualifications of applicants if you wanted to return four years later and find the business in a semblance of the way you left it."

He said qualifications are just as important in electing a county commissioner, and he began citing his own, beginning with the fact he's now in the process of building a new home in Belle Glade (WETC). Este grupo ha estado muy activo durante los meses pasados, tratando de implementar programas para las personas que trabajan en el área de Belle Glade y de su vecindad. Este comité ha diseñado unos cursos que ayudarán a aquellas personas que no tengan trabajo y deseen obtener conocimiento para poder trabajar. O puede ser que las personas ya estén trabajando pero le hace falta alcanzar mayor conocimiento de lo que está haciendo, entonces puede venir a uno de estos cursos por las semanas y obtener lo que la haga falta. Los cursos preparados son los siguientes y serán ofrecidos en las fechas siguientes.

Número de los cursos
Curso
1 - Tractor Operations, Safety, and Maintenance (rubber tires and crawler), 3:00 - 6:00 P.M., Sept. 29, 30, Oct. 1, 2, & 6-9.
2 - Basic Welding, 3:00 - 6:00 P.M., Sept. 29, 30, Oct. 1, 2 & 6-9.
3 - Cane Truck Operations, Safety, and Maintenance, 3:00 - 6:00 P.M., Oct. 13-16 & 20-23.
4 - Forklift Operations, Safety, and Maintenance, 3:00 - 6:00 P.M., Oct. 13-16 & 20-23.

Después que estos cursos ya hayan terminado podrán ser ofrecidos por West Ove Tech de acuerdo con la demanda que haya. Las personas que completan los cursos recibirán un certificado indicando los cursos que hayan terminado.

La matrícula para el curso es de $13.00. Para la operación del equipo se le cobrará a cada individuo una cantidad adicional de $22.00 para cubrir los gastos de la gasolina. Uno de los cuantos los propietarios de esta área han expresado el "deseo de ayudar con los gastos de que quieran mejorar su trabajo. Cualquiera persona que quiera matricularse, por favor llame a Mrs. Junaita Lampi o Mrs. Patricia Harrington a West Tech, 996-7617.

AMES, IOWA-The State of Florida has come through for Iowa State University, supplying the Cyclones this year for four starters, one from Pahokee High School.

Following in the footsteps of Wayne Stanley, a former Glades Central player, is former Blue Devil Joe Brown.

Brown is a former all-star at Pahokee and is a veteran starting cornerback for Iowa State. The 5'11", 174 pounder will team with Larry Crawford, a Miami Palmetto High prep, to give the Cyclones an outstanding tandem at the corners. A big play specialist, Brown had 22 and interception return against Texas a year ago and turned around with a ten-yard two weeks later against Pacific.

"He has a lot of experience and we are counting on him to have an excellent year," Cyclone defensive coordinator Larry Coyner said of the Pahokee junior, who will again handle the team chores for the Cyclones.

Joining Brown is Pahokee teammate Ronnie Osborne, the three-time all-star cornerback for the Devils. Osborne was switched to free safety during spring practice this year to take advantage of his speed and quickness. The 5'9", 177 pounder is set at the number two free safety spot for the early part of the season.

Coyner said Osborne possesses excellent athletic ability and with a little more understanding of the defensive backfield, can be an outstanding free safety. The speedster had seven tackles and an interception in the Cyclones' opening scrimmage this fall.

The Pahokee pair follow in the footsteps of Wayne Stanley. The former Raider carried a share of the quarterback duties by the time he was a senior. Ames and Stanley were named All-Big Eight two years in a row before graduating in 1977. He is now an assistant coach at Ohio State University.

With only three months left in the year, the rainfall shortage in the Glades reached 7.54 inches as of the end of September, according to Dr. Bob Allen at the Agricultural Research and Education Center in Belle Glade.

Dr. Allen said 7.54 inches of rain was measured last month at the AREC weather station. 1.14 inches less than the 8.68 55-year average rainfall for September. That set the 56-year average at 8.66 inches for the month.

He said the cumulative total of rain that's fallen this year is 41.0 inches compared to 48.55 inches as the 55-year average and 48.41 inches as the 56 year average.

Moving into the dry part of the year, there would have to be an average of 5.3 inches of rain for the next three months to reach the 55-year average of 57 inches for the year. The averages in the next three months are 4.61 in October, 2.14 inches in November and 1.7 inches in December.
